2.77(b)

Records: Carriers and intermediate handlers.

The registrant could not provide a health certificate for one of the animals transported. Health certificates are necessary to ensure that a veterinarian has examined the animal within 10 days prior to delivery of the animal for transportation to verify that the animal is free of any infectious disease or physical abnormality which would endanger the animal or other animals or public health. The registrant shall keep and maintain a copy of the health certificate for each dog, cat, or nonhuman primate that is transported.

3.14(c)

Consignments to carriers and intermediate handlers.

Some of the transportation documentation did not indicate the last feeding and watering of the animal transported. The certification of feeding and watering is needed to know when the animal is to be fed or watered within the required time period. The registrant shall ensure that the consignor certifies in writing that the animal was fed within 4 hours of acquisition.

3.15(a)

Primary enclosures used to transport live dogs and cats.

At time of inspection the registrant advised that dogs are not always placed in a primary enclosure during transport. Primary enclosures during transport are required to ensure the safety of the animal by restricting its movements, decreasing the chance of escape, and so as not to distract the driver. The registrant shall ensure that all animals are transported within a primary enclosure that meets the AWA regulations and standards.

Care in transit.

At time of inspection the registrant provided documentation of a service offered noted a "dog walks". This service is an option provided by the registrant upon request. As advised by the registrant, the animal transported would be removed from it's primary enclosure to take a walk outside of the conveyance. On one of the "potty walks" the registrant advised that a Great Dane "slipped" the restraints and ran off. The Great Dane was struck by a car in a nearby parking lot and was rushed to an emergency veterinary clinic for care by the individual that struck the dog. The animal succumbed to the
