3.11(a)

Cleaning, sanitization, housekeeping, and pest control.

An excessive amount of fecal material was observed in multiple dog enclosures. Enclosures are not being cleaned at a frequency in order to prevent excessive buildup. Animals housed in an enclosure with an excessive buildup of fecal material and grime could possibly develop an illness, since these conditions harbor disease causing agents. Excreta must be removed from enclosures daily and as often as necessary in order to prevent excessive buildup of fecal material. The licensee must correct this issue.
