3.131(d)

Sanitation.

During this inspection, the Aphis official observed numerous Black Vultures roosting on the primary fences of the pot-bellied pig, Red River hogs, and the Asiatic Black bear. They were also walking around on the grounds of each of these enclosures and near the animals housed therein. Their droppings are present on the primary enclosure fence rails and posts that they roost on. Due to the numbers and locations of the birds, their droppings could present a health hazard for the animals. A safe and effective program to control these birds shall be established and maintained.
