3.127(c)

Facilities, outdoor.

The shelter structure for the enclosure housing the female goats has a drainage issue. Due to large snowmelt and current rain plus the ground sloping toward the shelter structure, the ground in the shelter structure is retaining water and is muddy despite a large amount of hay/straw placed in the structure. To protect the health of the hooves of the goats and prevent discomfort, the goats should be provided a dry sheltered area where water is rapidly eliminated. A suitable method shall be provided to rapidly eliminate excess water from the shelter structure in the female goat enclosure. Correct by 2/1/24.

This inspection and exit interview were conducted with the licensees.
