3.55

WATERING.

***During the inspection, the APHIS inspector observed that the water in the water receptacles provided for the two rabbits was frozen into blocks of ice. A facility employee stated that the rabbits' water receptacles were supposed to be filled daily in the morning. At the time of inspection at approximately 12:00 PM, these receptacles had not been changed/refilled from the previous day.

The licensee must ensure that the rabbits are provided with clean, potable water in order to ensure that they maintain adequate hydration. Sufficient potable water shall be provided daily except as might otherwise be required to provide adequate veterinary care.

Corrected at the time of inspection

3.127(c)

FACILITIES, OUTDOOR.

***There was not adequate drainage in an enclosure containing two young cows. The ground beneath the only shelter in the enclosure was muddy, wet, and filled with puddles of standing water. The animals must stand in the mud and puddles in order to be sheltered from the elements.

Animals standing in water for excess periods of time are at risk for hoof rot and other foot problems. The facility must have a suitable method to rapidly eliminate excess water from the enclosures.

To be corrected by: October 17, 2017

This inspection was conducted with a facility employee and the exit interview was conducted with the licensee.
