3.153(a)(2)

Primary enclosures.

Two outdoor enclosures, one that housed pigeons and the other housing macaws, had perches of inadequate shape or size for the species. Only one perch per enclosure was of adequate size and shape for the birds contained within. The other perches provided were too large in diameter which caused the birds to hold their feet in an abnormal conformation. Failure to provide species appropriate perches may result in injury to the birds such as development of foot sores and can contribute to their discomfort. Furniture-type objects such as perches must be species appropriate and designed and maintained so that they prevent harm to the bird.

Correct by 04/15/2025.

Corrected at time of inspection.

3.158(a)(1)

Cleaning, sanitization, housekeeping, and pest control.

The indoor enclosure housing cockatoos and parrots is in need of cleaning. The back wall and ceiling heaters are dirty and covered by a layer of dust and debris. Numerous cobwebs were located along the back wall up to the ceiling of the enclosure. Regular cleaning is necessary to prevent soiling of the birds, and to reduce disease hazards, insects, pests and odors. The facility must establish a system for timely removal of dust, debris, as well as excreta as necessary to prevent excessive accumulation within the enclosures.

Correct by 04/15/2025.

This inspection and exit interview were conducted with a facility representative.
