ATTENDING VETERINARIAN AND ADEQUATE VETERINARY CARE (DEALERS AND EXHIBITORS).

 The owner has an attending veterinarian and a written Program of Veterinary Care (PVC) however, the written PVC has not been signed in over a year. The program of veterinary care states that the veterinarian will examine the animals annually. The signature of the veterinarian ensures that the animals are being provided adequate veterinary care by the signed veterinarian and that the animals have been examined on an annual basis. The written program of veterinary care will ensure that there is accurate communication between the applicant and the attending veterinarian and ensure that all routine medications and vaccines provided to the animals by the applicant are done with the direction and knowledge of the attending veterinarian. The program of veterinary care should be sign by the appointed veterinarian for this facility. Correct by October 15, 2015

FACILITIES, GENERAL.

 The primary fencing enclosing the sheep and goats is curling up at the bottom. The animals step very closely to the fencing and could potentially get their hooves caught and cause injury.

Also on the front side of their pen near an area where the dirt has been washed-out beneath the the bottom of the fencing there is a strand of barbed wire. The animals can come in direct contact with the barbed wire and could possibly injure themselves. The primary enclosure shall be maintained in good repair to protect the animals from injury.
