Space requirements.

25 adult pigs are currently nursing litters in farrowing stalls and 172 adult pigs are individually housed in gestation stalls. Each enclosure containing these adult breeding sows is approximately 2 feet by 5 feet and does not allow the animal to turn around. Multiple sows housed in the gestation building exhibited abnormal behaviors including excessive cage bar biting and chewing at the air with no food in their mouths ("sham chewing").

Extremely confined spaces that do not allow the animal to make normal postural adjustments such as turning around can contribute to stress, debilitation, and abnormal behavior patterns.

Please correct by constructing and maintaining enclosures that provide sufficient space to allow each animal to make normal postural and social adjustments with adequate freedom of movement.

Correct by April 1st, 2023.
