2.40(b)(3)

ATTENDING VETERINARIAN AND ADEQUATE VETERINARY CARE (DEALERS AND EXHIBITORS).

Three skin lesions on a male lion had not been noticed by the caretaker. Two approximately one inch long reddened scratches were observed near the base of the tail, one on each side of the tail. The third lesion, located on the left hock, was approximately 1.5 inches long and one inch wide. The hair was missing over all three lesions and the skin was abraded and open over the tail and hock lesions on the left side of the body. Flies were seen settling on the left tail lesion.

Daily observation of all animals to assess their well-being as well as direct and frequent communication with the attending veterinarian regarding health issues are necessary to ensure that the animals at the facility receive timely and adequate veterinary care. Documentation of health problems, communications with the attending veterinarian, and treatment of those problems are necessary to ensure that the facility is providing appropriate monitoring and treatment of sick and injured animals. A system should be in place to ensure that the facility keeps appropriate daily observations of animal health problems and treatments.

Correct from this time forward.

3.129(a)

FEEDING.

There was no feeding plan for exotic small cats available for review.

Failure to provide an appropriate diet can lead to serious medical problems for the animals. The exhibitor must ensure that diets have sufficient nutritive value to maintain all animals in good health. The diet should be prepared
