2.131(c)(1)

HANDLING OF ANIMALS.

***The milking cow and calf are used for periodic agricultural talks. At other times, they are on exhibition in an unattended area with no barrier fences in place. During these periods of exhibition, the public can come in direct contact with the animals and there is no readily identifiable attendant present. During public exhibition, there must be a barrier between the animal and the public for the safety of both the animal and the public. A barrier must be constructed of sufficient distance and height to assure the safety of the public and the animals.

Correct by July 30, 2015

3.125(a)

FACILITIES, GENERAL.

Structural Strength

***Hoof stock Enclosure (Pasture1): Part of the enclosure fence runs across a drainage trench. At the point of the drainage trench, there is a large gap at the bottom of the fence. The gap is large enough to allow small animals and unauthorized persons to pass under and into the pasture. Enclosure fences should be constructed in a manner to prevent the entry of unwanted animals and people. The gap in the enclosure fence must be eliminated to protect the hoof stock in the enclosure from being exposed to unauthorized persons and unwanted animals. Correct by July 30, 2015.

An exit briefing was conducted with the owner.
