3.15(a)

Primary enclosures used to transport live dogs and cats.

On 3/13/2024 , an adult German Shepherd was accepted for transport . The dog was allowed to ride loose in the transport vehicle since the transporter did not have a crate large enough for the dog . The dog could easily be injured or escape during transport if not contained in a cage or crate . The dog or cat must be contained in a primary enclosure such as a compartment, transport cage, carton, or crate to prevent injury to the animal or persons.
