3.84(c)

Cleaning, sanitization, housekeeping, and pest control.

Overgrown Poke weed and Thistles were present along the primary enclosure fence for the gibbons. These plants were between the primary fence and a wooden fence in the rear of the enclosure and starting to grow through the enclosure fence. Poke weed and their berries are poisonous, if ingested. The Thistle has sharp prickles on the margins as well as all over the plant. The flower head or false flower, has smaller prickles, that when dried, become burrs that attach to the haircoat of the gibbons and could cause injury. These plants must be removed to prevent injury to the gibbons housed therein.

Weeds, grass, and bushes must be controlled so as to facilitate cleaning of the premises and pest control.

CORRECTED AT TIME OF INSPECTION
