3.52(d)

FACILITIES, OUTDOOR.

Section 3.52(d) Protection from predators: There is no gate or door to close the large opening in the wood fence that contains the eight outdoor rabbit enclosures by the side of the barn. Predators such as fox or coyotes could walk through the open area of the fence to harm the rabbits. The open area in the fence must be closed to protect the rabbits from predators.

Correct by May 28, 2014.

3.125(a)

FACILITIES, GENERAL.

Section 3.125(a) Structural strength: The enclosure housing 6 sheep, 4 goats and 2 calves needs repairs. The section of small wire mesh has wire strands detaching and pulling away from the underlying wire fence on the side opposite from the shelter. The wire ends may injure the animals. This same side of the enclosure fence has a hog panel detaching from the fence post and leaning in toward the enclosure. An animal may try to go into the gap between the detaching hog panel and the wire fence and get caught in the fencing. The fence must be repaired to prevent injury to the animals.

Correct by May 21, 2014.

An exit briefing was conducted with the facility president.
