Watering.

At time of inspection, two water receptacles the outdoor housed animals had continuous or overnight access to prior to their departure that morning for an exhibition event to return by 11 AM same day, had greenish-brown organic sediment and plant material covering the bottom of the receptacles. There was also debris floating on top of the water. One receptacle was for 2 pigs of mixed age and sex and one receptacle was for 6 goats, 2 zebu and 2 sheep of mixed age and sex. The facility representative stated the water receptacles had not been cleaned for the past couple of days. Failure to provide access to potable water in clean water receptacles for animals may result in their illness or injury. Exhibitors shall keep all water receptacles clean and sanitary.

Correct from this date forward of 11 July 2023.

This inspection and exit interview were conducted with facility representative.
