3.154(c)(4)

Environment enhancement to promote psychological well-being.

The current environmental enhancement plan is inadequate to provide for enrichment of a singly housed American crow without visual access to other species. The current plan prescribes housing of the crow with other crows when available on the premises, including rehabilitation animals. The licensee also expressed that keys, toys, and other enrichment objects may be used, though these offerings are not tracked. On inspection, however, a single small ball is the only toy available in the enclosure and the licensee shared that a partner bird has not been available for cohabitation since the previous inspection in October, 2024. Failure to provide adequate, continuous enrichment of this highly intelligent, social species, especially when singly housed, may compromise psychological welfare. The facility must amend its enrichment plan to develop species-appropriate enrichment, approved by the attending veterinarian, for singly housed individuals of social species.

Correct by January 10, 2025.

This inspection and exit interview were conducted with the licensee.
