2.40(b)(2) Critical

Attending veterinarian and adequate veterinary care (dealers and exhibitors).

On the night of 6/23/23, at ~2:00 am, a 5-week-old male bat-eared fox died. The licensee woke to a gasping sound from the fox within his kennel. The licensee stated that he found the fox laying on its side and its belly was gassed up and hard. The licensee gave the fox a rectal suppository, thinking it may be bloated. The licensee stated that he did not call the attending veterinarian because it was in the middle of the night, and it seemed like the fox was already dying. There is no mention of suppositories on the program of veterinary care and the attending veterinarian did not instruct the licensee to administer a suppository. Each dealer shall maintain programs of veterinary care that include the use of appropriate methods to prevent, control, diagnose, and treat diseases and injuries, and the availability of emergency, weekend and holiday care. Administering substances that are not approved by a veterinarian may cause injury or harm to the animal and should not be used on regulated animals.

Correct starting 10/30/23.

This inspection and exit interview were conducted with the licensee.
