Environment enhancement to promote psychological well-being.

The facility environmental enhancement plan(EEP) to promote the psychological well-being of its nonhuman primates has not been revised since January 26th, 2024 despite two changes in staffing at the Attending Veterinarian(AV) position since that time. According to the facility document, evaluations are to occur at least once a year, with additional reviews being conducted whenever there is an AV staffing change. An EEP that is not approved by the current AV could potentially lead to unnecessary discomfort, trauma, behavioral stress, or physical harm to the animals housed within the facility. The EEP must be in accordance with the currently accepted professional standards as cited in appropriate professional journals or reference guides, and as directed by the AV.
