2.40(a)(1)

Attending veterinarian and adequate veterinary care (dealers and exhibitors).

There is no written program of veterinary care. According to the facility, they have a formal arrangement with a local veterinarian but were unable to find the written program. A written program of veterinary care along with regularly scheduled visits to the premises is important for maintaining animal health.

Correct by having a written program of veterinary care in place including regularly scheduled visits to the premises.

3.125(a)

Facilities, general.

Some structures providing shelter for the animals are in disrepair and do not adequately protect the animals from injury.

 In the Zebu pasture there is a shelter with torn and bent metal siding. The left wall of the shelter is comprised of four metal panels attached to the underlying wood supports. The lower front panel has a large hole about 2-3' wide with sharp metal edges bent in multiple different directions. The lower back panel has a smaller hole, about 2-4" wide with sharp, bent edges.

 The pig shelter has a piece of metal fencing closing off the back wall with two sharp edges of metal protruding towards the interior of the shelter. Additionally, there is an old blanket with chewed/frayed edges hanging on the front door of the shelter within easy access of the grazing sheep and goats that are housed around the building.
