2.40(b)(2) Critical

Attending veterinarian and adequate veterinary care (dealers and exhibitors).

According to facility keeper notes on November 11, 2024 an adult female parakeet named "Claire" was discovered injured and unable to fly in the aviary. The facility manager stated that the wings appeared "tattered." The keeper notified the facility manager immediately when the bird's injury was noticed. The facility manager called their veterinary clinic, but the clinic was closing for the evening and recommended the emergency veterinary clinic. Although the facility's Program of Veterinary Care lists a separate after-hours option for emergency veterinary care, the facility manager elected to separate the injured bird overnight in another room, where it was found deceased the following morning.

Delaying veterinary care to injured animals prolongs their discomfort and suffering, and can result in worsening of an animal's condition or even death. Every dealer or exhibitor must establish, maintain and follow a program of adequate veterinary care that includes the provision of emergency, weekend and holiday care for animals when needed.

3.125(a)

Facilities, general.

There are several sharp-edged pieces of sheet metal attached to cover damaged wood on the interior of the enclosure housing one, adult male African crested porcupine. Additionally, the the edges of this metal are bent inward at some points where the animal can easily come into contact with it.

Sharp edges and points pose an injury risk to animals. The licensee must ensure that indoor and outdoor housing facilities are structurally sound and maintained in good repair to protect the animals from injury and to contain the animals.
