3.125(a) Repeat

Facilities, general.

At least 25 enclosures housing 25 skunks have gaps between the wire outdoor portion of the enclosure and the wooden nest box.

One enclosure housing one racoon has a gap between the wire floor and wire side.

The gaps in these enclosures are large enough that a foot could easily fall through and get caught and cause injury to an animal. The enclosures must be repaired or modified to eliminate the gaps.

One enclosure containing 4 ferrets has sharp points created by the broken flooring.

One enclosure containing 3 skunks has sharp points around the opening to the nest box where the wire mesh outer enclosure attaches to the nest box.

These sharp points could cause injury to the animals. The enclosures must be repaired or modified to eliminate the sharp points.

All of the above structural issues were corrected by the applicant at the time of inspection.
