2.131(c)(1)

Handling of animals.

The African Crested Porcupine are housed in an exhibit with solid walls that are approximately 3 feet tall. The height of this exhibit does not prevent a member of the public from reaching over the wall and contacting the animals. There must be sufficient distance and/or barriers to prevent public contact with the animals to ensure the safety of the animals and the public.

CORRECT BY : 9/11/2022

3.75(c)(1)

Housing facilities, general.

The fire hose hammock used in the holding area for the Orangutans has one strap that is broken and has numerous frayed threads. The hole created by the broken strap has created a hole that may allow an arm or leg to become trapped and the frayed threads may be caught on digits resulting in injury to the animals. Furniture-type fixtures or objects must be sturdily constructed and must be strong enough to provide for the safe activity and welfare of nonhuman primates. The hammock must be removed, repaired or replaced and must be strong enough to provide for the safe activity of the Orangutans.
