WATERING.

At the time of this inspection it was noted that a few of the water receptacles were in need of attention. The Jacob sheep, Nubian goats, and alpaca pens had water receptacles that had an accumulation of grain, hay and algae present. It was also noted that the fallow deer only had access to the pond for drinking water. To ensure that the deer have access to potable water, another source will need to be provided.

To Be Corrected By: July 11, 2015

SANITATION.

At this time there are two aluminum gates in the llama / sheep pen. These gates are lying on the ground behind the shelter. To ensure that these animals do not get injured on these gates they will need to be removed from the primary enclosure.
