Type: ROUTINE INSPECTION
Date: 16-JUL-2024

2.40(b)(2) Direct

Attending veterinarian and adequate veterinary care (dealers and exhibitors).

- An elderly female goat named "Wilma" has overgrown hooves and is visibly lame. She also appears to have difficulty lying down and standing up. Wilma appears to be "knuckling" over onto the lateral aspect of her right front hoof. Lameness and reluctance to stand or lie down are an indication of pain and possibly mechanical obstruction. Painful conditions have a dramatic impact on the health and well being of an animal. Wilma must be seen by a licensed veterinarian and treated appropriately
