2.40(b)(2)

ATTENDING VETERINARIAN AND ADEQUATE VETERINARY CARE (DEALERS AND EXHIBITORS).

Four goats, one alpaca, and one pig had overgrown hooves due to a lack of recent hoof trimming. Failure to appropriately maintain hooves can cause gait abnormalities which could be painful or cause injuries. As part of the facility's program of preventative veterinary care, the licensee must ensure that all animals receive appropriate hoof care in a timely manner.

3.125(a)

FACILITIES, GENERAL.

 In the goats and sheep's enclosure, there was an 8 inch gap in the top part of a section of fence. This gap was large enough that the animal's horns or head could get stuck and therefore poses the risk of injury to animals in the enclosure.

 In the alpaca's enclosure some of the metal fencing along the bottom of the enclosure's door was in disrepair. Portions of the fencing were creating several sharp points that were pointing inward into the enclosure toward the animals and could cause injury.

All enclosures must be kept in good repair and free of sharp points and protruding edges in order to protect the animals from injury. A system of facility monitoring and maintenance should be in place and to ensure all animal facilities are structurally sound and in good repair to protect the animals from injury and/or escape.

Date to be Corrected: October 25, 2017

This inspection and exit interview were conducted with a facility representative.
