FACILITIES, OUTDOOR.

The rabbit barns do not have solid external walls, the lower portion of the walls are chicken wire to promote ventilation. In the research barn, two to three areas of the chicken wire were damaged, created 4-6 inch gaps. These gaps potentially allow predators to enter the barn and the facility needs to be enclosed to minimize the entrance of predators. A system of maintenance should be in place to ensure that gaps are identified and repaired.

3.56(c)

SANITATION.

The sheltered housing facility - Barn 1 had a significant crack in the concrete floor in the walkway next to the rabbit enclosures. The floor is no longer in good repair and the crack is large enough to trap fecal material, which prevents effective cleaning of the facility. The facility should ensure that the premises are kept clean and in good repair to facilitate housekeeping and husbandry practices.
