2.40(b)(2)

Attending veterinarian and adequate veterinary care (dealers and exhibitors).

One white llama had overgrown hooves on all four limbs. The hooves were long enough that they were starting to curl. Long hooves can affect the animal's health and well-being. Each exhibitor shall establish and maintain programs of adequate veterinary care that include the use of appropriate methods to prevent, control, and treat diseases and injuries. Hooves need to be trimmed as often necessary to prevent overgrowth that can lead to pain, injury and/or gait abnormality.

Facilities, outdoor.

Two young goats were housed outdoors. The shelter within the enclosure measured 36 inches long by 25 inches wide. The shelter was not large enough to accommodate both goats. A shelter that is too small cannot adequately protect and prevent discomfort for all animal within the enclosure if exposed to inclement weather. Natural or artificial shelter appropriate to the local climatic conditions for the species concerned shall be provided for all animals kept outdoors to afford them protection and to prevent discomfort to such animals. This was corrected at the time of inspection.

This is a 1st Re-License Inspection for a Class "C" license. The inspection and exit briefing were conducted with the applicant.
