Watering

The water bowl in the Screech owl enclosure had several droppings in it and appears to have not been cleaned or changed for at least several days. There are no other sources of water in the enclosure. This poses a risk of contamination to the enclosed birds. Water receptacles for birds must be cleaned and sanitized as often as necessary to keep them free from contamination.

Cleaning, sanitization, housekeeping, and pest control.

The bank of stainless steel cages in the Infirmary, containing a Barn Owl, had not been adequately cleaned. Additionally, a morning dove had been housed in the enclosure directly over the owl and dried droppings ran down into the lower cage. There was cardboard with visibly dried feces and spiderwebs in the enclosures around the owl. Excreta and waste must be removed from under and around the primary enclosure to reduce disease hazards.
