Facilities, general.

In the enclosure housing 1 female leopard, there is a ramp with 2 exposed screw heads sticking out approximately 1 inch above the surface where a traction cleat had broken off. Exposed screw heads, especially in areas of high traffic, pose an injury risk to an animal's feet and legs. Housing facilities should be maintained in good repair to protect the animals from injury.

APHIS officials observed the facility correcting this during the inspection.

This inspection and exit interview were conducted with a facility representative.
