OUTDOOR HOUSING FACILITIES.

There were 4 enclosures in the outdoor facility that had no shelters for the enclosed dogs. One enclosure contained puppies (6 puppies approximately 6 months old) and the other 3 enclosures held 5 adult dogs. Shelters are necessary to protect the animals from the elements. While the row of enclosures are in a shed structure with a roof and a solid wall at the rear of the enclosures, there must be a shelter that has a roof, four sides, and a floor. The owner must provide and maintain one or more shelters in each outdoor enclosure that are large enough to contain all the animals at one time and allow them to sit, stand, lie, and turn about freely.

This inspection and exit interview were conducted with facility representatives.
