2.131(d)(2)

Handling of animals.

During the inspection, members of the public were observed touching and feeding the goats without a readily identifiable attendant present. In the outdoor goat area, members of the public were able to easily pass their hands through the fencing material to touch and feed the goats. The facility stated that they have an attendant available to observe the interactions from Friday to Sunday, but they do not have employees available during the rest of the week.

A lack of readily identifiable attendants to observe the public during times of contact with the goats could lead to inappropriate interactions which could harm the animals or members of the public.

A responsible, knowledgeable and readily identifiable employee or attendant must be present at all times during periods of public contact.

This inspection and exit interview were conducted with facility representatives.
