2.40(a)(1)

ATTENDING VETERINARIAN AND ADEQUATE VETERINARY CARE (DEALERS AND EXHIBITORS).

Upon review of the facility's program of veterinary care it was noted that the veterinarian who had signed the program of veterinary care was different from the veterinarian currently performing site visits and providing hands-on treatment of animals. These veterinarians do not practice at the same business. A third exotics veterinarian at a separate business is often consulted by phone when regulated animals become ill. It is important for the veterinarian performing site visits and providing direct care to the animals to sign and approve the program of veterinary care. This ensures that the attending veterinarian and licensee have a mutual understanding of what care is to be routinely provided for regulated animals and when a veterinarian should be consulted in case of illness. Site visits are to be performed and program of veterinary care approved by the site veterinarian at least once per year to ensure that it is up to date and reflective of current veterinary practice standards for regulated species. Correct by 5/22/2014.

2.75(b)(1)

RECORDS: DEALERS AND EXHIBITORS.

A conversation with the licensee revealed two missing records. Three Nilgai ( Boselaphus tragocamelus) were sold at an exotic animal auction in 2013. There was no record of this transaction available for review at inspection. One male Dik Dik was also given away in 2013 to an individual. There was no record of this transaction available for review at inspection. Keeping complete records of acquisitions, dispositions, and sales of exotic animals facilitates tracking of these animals in case of disease outbreak. Records of acquisition and disposition of animals also enable detection of unlicensed activity by buyers and sellers. Records containing the name, address, and USDA license number (where applicable) of the buyer and seller shall be kept for any animals acquired, sold or given away.

Correct by 5/19/2014.

The inspection and exit briefing were conducted with the owner.
