3.1(a)

HOUSING FACILITIES, GENERAL.

An electric power cord for one heating pad for a mother with puppies was plugged into an outlet and the protecting cover for the power cord did not extend the length far enough out of the reach of the puppies and mother. Puppies and adults could chew on the power cord resulting in serious injury to the animal. All electric power cords must be protected to prevent chewing on them from the animals in the enclosure. Correct by 17 March 2018.

3.1(c)(3)

HOUSING FACILITIES, GENERAL.

There is a build-up of grime on the interior walls of the whelping building. According to the facility representative it has been several weeks since the last time those walls had been cleaned. A lack of cleaning can lead to an increase in disease transmission. All surfaces in contact with the dogs must be spot-cleaned on a daily basis and sanitized in accordance with paragraph 3.11(b). Correct by 24 March 2018.

This inspection and exit interview were conducted with a facility representative.
