3.28(a)(1)

PRIMARY ENCLOSURES.

The guinea pig was in its enclosure in the animal care office. The following problems were observed with the enclosure:

- 1.) The door of the animal's enclosure was open and unattended, posing the risk of a fall and escape.
- 2.) The enclosure sits unsecured on a shelf. In the event of an earthquake the enclosure could easily fall from the shelf, posing a risk of injury or escape.

The facility should ensure that the enclosure for the guinea pig is safe and secure. Steps should be taken immediately to ensure that the animal cannot escape or become injured, with more permanent correction measures to be in place by 4/24/17.

3.125(a)

FACILITIES, GENERAL.

In the goat and sheep enclosure some hazards were identified:

- 1.) A wire panel in the fence had come loose from the wood support, and there was an opening measuring two feet wide, and one to two inches in height that had sharp wire ends protruding. This opening was located about two to three feet off the ground, and was accessible to the animals, which poses a risk of injury.
- 2.) The back wall of the enclosure is made of plywood, and the surface is delaminating, with strips of material peeling from the surface and collecting on the ground in the enclosure. This material could be harmful to the animals if ingested.

The enclosure should be structurally sound and free of hazards. The facility should be institute a system of regular review and maintenance of all animal enclosures to ensure that they are safe and secure. Hazards should be minimized immediately, pending more permanent repairs.

To be corrected by 4/24/17.
