Type: ROUTINE INSPECTION

Date: 01-DEC-2022

3.75(c)(1)(i)

Housing facilities, general.

The enclosures housing gibbons and capuchin monkeys have metal framework that is rusted. Each enclosure has a run attached that allows the animals to have access to a route of travel from one enclosure to another. These runs are attached to the enclosures by a metal framework. The steel frameworks have rusted areas with flaking metal and degraded surfaces which could prevent proper cleaning and sanitization. Proper cleaning and sanitization are essential for removing excess debris and reducing unacceptable microorganisms that may be harmful to the animals. Any surfaces that come in contact with nonhuman primates must be free of excessive rust that prevents the required cleaning and sanitization, or that affects the structural strength of the surface. To be corrected by December 30, 2022.

Environment enhancement to promote psychological well-being.

At the time of inspection, the documented program of environmental enhancement for non-human primates to was inadequate. It did not address the specific needs of each individual species or special considerations for the singly housed, common squirrel monkey or lar gibbons. An adequate environmental enhancement program is essential in promoting the psychological well-being of non-human primates. Dealers, Exhibitors, and research facilities must develop,
