3.61(a) Repeat

Primary enclosures used to transport live rabbits.

Several of the primary transport enclosures for rabbits were not constructed in a manner to facilitate proper ventilation and safe handling. Approximately 50 % of the rabbit enclosures did not have projecting rims to ensure adequate ventilation or handholds to prevent tilting during movement or contact with the animals. Two enclosures (lot #8495 and #8453) were observed with bent or broken wires causing sharp point projecting into the enclosure. Projecting rims and handholds on transport enclosures ensure adequate ventilation when cages are stacked, and proper handling when moving cages. Sharp metal points in enclosures can be injurious to the rabbits. Correct by ensuring that rabbit transport enclosures are compliant with the AWA regulations including projecting rims, handholds, and interiors that are free from any protrusions that may injure the rabbits.

3.61(c)

Primary enclosures used to transport live rabbits.

A rabbit enclosure (lot# 8949), housing seven adult rabbits, did not have enough space for the animals to turn about freely. While the rabbits were standing, they touched all sides of the enclosure and were not able to make normal postural adjustments. One rabbit that was attempting to move from the front of the enclosure, fell into the water receptacle and was unable to move past the other rabbits. Enclosures that are too small for the number of rabbits contained within them, can inhibit the natural movements of the animal and cause unnecessary stress and discomfort. Enclosures used to transport live animals shall be large enough to ensure that each animal has sufficient space to turn about freely and to make normal postural adjustments. This non-compliance was corrected at the time of inspection.

3.162(a)

Primary enclosures used to transport live birds.

Numerous primary transport enclosures for birds are not properly constructed. Numerous primary transport enclosures for birds did not have handholds (example, Lot # 9071), were not marked with the words "Live Animals" (example, Lot #10132), were not constructed to allow birds to be quickly removed in an emergency (example, Lot # 9070). Additionally, numerous birds were sticking their heads outside of the enclosures (example, Lot # 9861) and some enclosures lacked a solid leak-proof bottom and/or a leak-proof collection tray (example, Lot # 9825). A lack of a method to quickly remove birds can make it difficult to remove birds in case of an emergency, a lack of handholds can cause unintentional contact between the handler and the bird during transport, a lack of "Live Animal" markings can cause inappropriate handling as its contents and position may be unclear to the staff, ability for birds to stick body parts outside the enclosure can cause injury, and a lack of a solid leak-proof bottom and/or a leak-proof collection tray can allow for fecal material to contaminate enclosures placed beneath. Correct by ensuring that all primary transport enclosures for birds are properly constructed. Correct by 6-November-2023.

Primary enclosures used to transport live birds.

Primary transport enclosures for birds do not provide sufficient space. A transport enclosure containing 8 chickens (Lot #9269) and another containing 11 chickens (Lot #10132) did not have sufficient space to allow birds to make normal postural adjustments. Inadequate space can cause unnecessary discomfort and distress to the birds. Primary enclosures used to transport live birds must be large enough to ensure that each bird contained therein has sufficient space to turn about freely and to make normal postural adjustments. Correct by ensuring that all primary transport enclosures for birds provide enough space. Correct by 6-November-2023.

This is a continuation of the report for the Focused inspection conducted 02-November-2023 and contains the remaining non-compliances found during the inspection. The exit briefing for the items included on this report was conducted on 04-November-2023.

This inspection was conducted with the facility representatives on 02-November-2023 through 04-November-2023. The exit interview was conducted with the facility representatives on 04-November-2023.
