Handling of animals.

Facility records document an incident involving prolonged, excessive ozone exposure for 11 King, 13 Gentoo and 10 Macaroni penguins inside their exhibit enclosure; the King penguins, in particular, were adversely affected (ID numbers B19029, B19036, B19028, B19033, B24002, B19031, B19034, B19032, B19030, B19035 and B24003). Water Quality Specialists in charge of monitoring the water life support systems performed daily reviews of Oxidation Reduction Potential (ORP) readings and recorded them in a Daily Water Quality Log. They noticed that ORP readings were consistently very high beginning 5/22/2025. Despite their awareness of this continuing trend leading up to the incident. none of the employees started efforts to mitigate the issue until the birds exhibited symptoms days later. Employees notified the veterinary staff when they observed the penguins' abnormal symptoms, and took immediate measures to eliminate the excess ozone from the air and water inside the exhibit. According to the attending veterinarian, several penguins had higher than usual respiratory rates and some were coughing on 05/24/2025, but they improved throughout the day without treatment; the following day, five penguins (four King penguins and one Gentoo penguin) were reported to be lethargic, coughing and head shaking. The penguins were observed by a staff veterinarian who noted these symptoms to be mild and not requiring treatment. On 05/26/2025, a King penguin named "Valentino" was reported to be lethargic, but swam and ate well; this bird and all the others made a complete recovery. An internal investigation revealed that the incident occurred due to a combination of equipment malfunction and failure by employees to take remedial steps when high readings were first noticed, before the birds were affected. The facility devised new procedures and additional training for staff and is in the process of replacing equipment as a permanent, mechanical corrective measure. All of the penguins appeared to be in good health and behaving normally at the time of inspection.

Failure to act to correct known, detrimental conditions in a timely manner caused the penguins discomfort and illness, and could have resulted in permanent injury or death. The licensee must ensure that all animals are exhibited only for periods of time and under conditions consistent with their good health and well-being.

Housing facilities, general.

Eight adult chimpanzees have access to an indoor holding area where there is peeled paint and exposed, rusted metal that is beginning to crack and flake on the surfaces of some doors and windows where the animals can easily grasp. Rusty surfaces are porous and not easily cleaned and sanitized, and sharp points can develop that pose a risk of injury to
