3.125(c)

Facilities, general.

A freezer used for food storage contained a deceased animal not for consumption. There was an accumulation of frozen blood and meat by-products on the bottom and sides of the freezer. Failure to maintain a clean freezer space may lead to deterioration of food sources and contamination of food from deceased animals not meant for consumption. Ensure supplies of food and bedding are stored in facilities which adequately protect such supplies against deterioration, molding, or contamination by vermin.

Watering.

The water bowls in the 2 enclosures, one enclosure containing 2 foxes and one enclosure containing 1 raccoon, have green algae present in them and is the only water receptacle present for each enclosure. Buildup of algae and organic material in water does not provide the animals potable water and may lead to health problems and disease hazards. Potable water must be provided as often as necessary for the health and comfort of the animals. All water receptacles shall be kept clean and sanitary. The facility must provide potable water and ensure the water receptacle is kept clean and sanitary.
