3.158(c)

Cleaning, sanitization, housekeeping, and pest control.

Housekeeping for Premises. The walls and the floor of the bird housing room were noted to be dirty and in need of cleaning. There was an excessive amount of dried excreta located on the walls and on the floor next to the enclosures that housed the larger species of birds, and there was an excessive amount of particulate debris present on the floor of the room.

Per this Section, premises where housing facilities are located, including the building where the birds are housed, must be kept clean to protect the birds from disease and to facilitate the husbandry practices required in this subpart. The walls and the floor of the bird housing room need to be cleaned to maintain the housekeeping of the premises and for the health of the birds. Correct by 3/27/26.
