Sanitation.

In the guinea pig room, there was a moderate to heavy accumulation of dirt and dust on several areas of the ceiling and along the surfaces of all the walls in this room. There were several cobwebs along the corners of the walls and ceiling and around the windows. At least one large cobweb measured approximately 1ftX 2ft in size. Additionally, there was an approximately 2ft to 3ft section of ceiling panels in this room which has become detached and is loosely, bent downward. Accumulations of dirt, dust and cobwebs in any area where animals are housed may negatively impact the health and well-being of the animals including possible respiratory problems, attracting pests, and other disease hazards. Additionally, a ceiling in the animal room in disrepair may pose a risk of injury or other hazard from loose materials falling on the animal enclosures below.
Premises (buildings and grounds) must be kept clean and in good repair in order to protect the animals from injury and to facilitate the prescribed husbandry practices set forth in this subpart.
